If any of the course intentions change or if you intend to only do research during some of the terms when you are still enrolled in the BEng Program, please immediately inform Graduate Program Administrator in your Department.

Accelerated MASc Research Plan

Attach a separate page(s) to briefly describe research to be conducted during the Accelerated MASc Pathway enrolment. In discussion with your future supervisor, develop and outline research activities expected from you, potential deliverables, and corresponding timelines by term while you are in the Accelerated MASc Pathway.

Depending on the research and discipline, examples of activities could include but not limited to: doing literature review, learning new software, assisting other team members by preparing testing specimens, assisting and building the test set-up, conducting experimental work, coding and debugging, conducting simulations, analyzing results, preparing technical report, etc.
