journalism school

There's never been a more exciting time to be a journalist

The Master of Journalism program offers advanced professional education in journalism across all media platforms: newspapers, magazines, broadcasting and digital media. Graduates of this unique program are prepared for employment in news organizations across Canada and beyond, or as freelancers.

Students receive a thorough grounding in advanced analytical and research skills and a sophisticated understanding of the complex and fundamentally important relationship between journalism and the society in which it is practised.

HANDS-ON LEARNING

The curriculum includes intensive studio-based courses in journalistic practice: advanced courses and seminars relating to news storytelling, training in analytical and research skills, a professional internship at top networks and organizations, international opportunities and the completion of a Major Research Project (MRP).

PAID OPPORTUNITIES + SCHOLARSHIPS

Apply to work as a Research Assistant or Graduate Teaching Assistant. Program funding is awarded to top candidates.

INTERNSHIP

The School of Journalism places and supervises senior students in professional internships in newsrooms and other media roles in the country's top organizations.

IN THE HEART OF TORONTO

Students will have the advantage of studying in Toronto, which is the centre of journalistic and media activity in Canada. Faculty members have extensive, high-level journalistic experience and a vast network of contacts among working journalists at all levels, which will substantially enrich graduates' educational experience and employment prospects.

MASTER OF JOURNALISM

You Belong Here

As a Master of Journalism student, you'll be part of The Creative School, a dynamic faculty offering 26 degree programs in media, design and creative industries that are shaping the future of their fields. As a disrupter in innovative education, The Creative School is where you come to learn, transform and reimagine everything you thought was creative. Through countless transdisciplinary opportunities, you'll become a leader in creative innovation who disrupts the conventions of your profession and expands what is possible. At The Creative School, students enjoy a global experience in the heart of downtown Toronto, developing their talents to emerge as some of the most in demand and employable graduates anywhere.
