Shape the future of law

At the Lincoln Alexander School of Law at Toronto Metropolitan University (TMU), we prepare you with the legal knowledge, skills and judgment to drive principled change in courtrooms, boardrooms, communities and beyond.

Located in the heart of downtown Toronto, we're embedded in the city's legal, financial, technology, government and non-profit sectors, offering you direct access to a broad range of professional opportunities. Within this vibrant landscape, you'll join a close-knit, supportive student community on campus where your ideas, ambition and voice matter.

Throughout your time here, you'll build strong and enduring relationships with faculty, staff and legal professionals, develop a deep understanding of the law, and gain invaluable experience through placements, practicums, externships, research and mentorship. And as the only law school in Toronto with an Integrated Practice Curriculum accredited by the Law Society of Ontario, we offer you a pathway to licensure without traditional articling, so you can begin your career and practice of law sooner, if you so choose.

Your journey to becoming a legal innovator starts here.

Toronto Metropolitan University is in the "Dish with One Spoon" territory.

Our university's campuses in Toronto and Brampton operate on the Treaty Lands of the Mississaugas of the Credit. This land has been part of the traditional territories of the Mississauga, Anishinaabe, Huron-Wendat and Haudenosaunee. They are now home to many First Nations Peoples, Inuit and Métis from across Turtle Island. We honour and uphold the Dish with One Spoon Treaty, we commit to valuing the Two Row Wampum, and we vow to treat the land and people of our community with understanding built on mutual respect.

The kind of lawyer you'll become

At Lincoln Alexander Law, our pillars are more than ideals. They're values in action, embedded across our curriculum, our culture and the learning experiences we create for every student. These pillars will challenge you, support you and shape the kind of lawyer you become — not by prescribing a single path, but rather by anchoring you in a legal education that values purpose, prepares for complexity and treats law as a tool for justice.

Here, you won't just become another lawyer. You'll become the kind of lawyer who challenges convention, represents the underrepresented and builds principled solutions for the evolving legal, social and ethical challenges facing Canadian society.

"The foundational, practical and entrepreneurial skills I gained at Lincoln Alexander Law help me tackle real challenges faced by startups."

ACADEMIC EXCELLENCE

We believe lawyers should be ready to devise creative legal solutions to real-world challenges. To that end, our Integrated Practice Curriculum blends theory with the applied skills required for modern legal practice. As you build foundational knowledge, you'll also learn about the business of lawyering, develop your emotional and cultural intelligence, and engage with emerging technologies. This will prepare you to meet the complexity of modern practice with rigour and adaptability.

INNOVATION AND ENTREPRENEURSHIP

To meet the demands of a legal system in transformation, you'll need more than traditional training. We'll empower you to develop the agility, creativity and critical insight to challenge old models and reimagine legal practice. Through courses and placements that engage with technology, design thinking and community needs, you'll learn to build legal services and systems that are adaptive, client-centred and anchored in justice.

EQUITY, DIVERSITY AND INCLUSION

Law should reflect and serve the diversity of the society it governs. We honour lived experience, interpersonal fluency and empathy as forms of intellectual capital. These beliefs will shape your education from your first year to your final placement, as you explore the legal needs of Canadian communities, particularly those historically underserved by the justice system. By examining systemic barriers and thinking across disciplines, you'll learn to practice law with empathy, perspective and purpose.

ACCESS TO JUSTICE

Access to justice is not just a goal — it's a way of thinking, teaching and practicing law. It means building the legal knowledge and practical skills needed to make justice more understandable, more reachable and more responsive. Whether through courses such as Indigenous Law or Law and Injustice, or placements in legal clinics and community settings, you'll learn how to recognize barriers, work across differences and serve real people with real needs.

Graduate Nicholas Hill drew on his innovative education to found the DMZ Startup Legal Support Centre, which provides free and subsidized legal support for tech entrepreneurs.

After graduating in 2025, TMU Gold Medal winner Anish Jammu commenced articling at Blake, Cassels & Graydon LLP.

In your final year, you'll gain real-world legal experience and grow your professional network through a 15-week placement.

Our mentorship programs connect you with upper-year students, alumni and legal professionals who can offer confidential advice and support.

Integrated Practice Curriculum

The Lincoln Alexander School of Law is home to Toronto's only Juris Doctor program accredited by the Law Society of Ontario as an Integrated Practice Curriculum (IPC), a unique learning model that blends academic excellence with real-world legal training. The IPC will equip you with the experience, skills and professional judgment to enter practice with confidence in today's evolving legal landscape.

Through our distinctive program, you'll have the option of becoming a licensed lawyer without completing the traditional articling requirement. The choice is yours, and we'll support you regardless of the path you take.

"As a first-generation law student, I've found that the Integrated Practice Curriculum has allowed me to develop the skills I need to be practice-ready from day one."

HOW IT WORKS

From day one, our IPC blends academic learning with practical training. In your first year, you'll experience our distinctive co-teaching model, wherein accomplished law professors and practicing lawyers work side by side in the classroom to bring you a comprehensive legal education that melds rigorous legal theory with industry insights.

Throughout your education, you'll complete intensive courses, which are week-long, full-time classes designed to get you practice-ready through applied learning and assessments. You'll participate in experiential learning opportunities that reflect the realities of today's legal professionals, and benefit from regular personalized mentorship and close interaction with your peers, staff, faculty and members of the profession.

In your final year, you'll complete a 15-week professional placement, guided by faculty and under the tutelage of a professional lawyer, where you'll apply your learning in a real-world legal setting.

AFTER YOU GRADUATE

Thanks to our IPC, you'll graduate with more practical legal experience than graduates of most other law programs, giving you a head start in your career.

Upon graduation, you'll be eligible to fulfill your licensing requirements without traditional articling, providing a more direct path to becoming a practicing lawyer.

Whether you choose to pursue a career in private practice, business, government or the non-profit sector, the IPC will ensure you're ready to lead with confidence, flexibility and purpose.

Your Juris Doctor program

At the Lincoln Alexander School of Law, you'll prepare to thrive in today's dynamic legal landscape with a curriculum focused on experiential learning, innovation and mentorship. # Admissions

We believe that excellence and reflexivity in the legal profession are essential to public trust and institutional legitimacy. That's why we seek students who bring a wide range of academic, professional and lived experiences: because law is best taught, practiced and advanced by those who can understand it from multiple vantage points and apply it with insight and integrity.

We assess each application holistically, and take into account the following when evaluating an applicant's potential:

- Official transcripts
(of all post-secondary studies)
- Official LSAT score (best result)
- Personal statement
- Letters of reference
- Résumé and autobiographical sketch
- Online interview
- English proficiency (if requested)

APPLICATION CATEGORIES

General

This is the standard route for most applicants who have completed or are completing an undergraduate university degree.

Indigenous

If you identify as First Nations, Métis or Inuit, Lincoln Alexander Law offers a dedicated Indigenous application category designed to support and honour your lived experiences. Your application is reviewed by a member of our Indigenous community, ensuring that it is considered with context, care and understanding.

Access

The Access application category provides applicants with an opportunity to identify and discuss any personal, academic or systemic barriers they may have experienced or overcome. This category includes, but is not limited to, Black individuals, people of colour, people with disabilities, 2SLGBTQ+ individuals, mature applicants, and those who have faced financial or systemic hardship.

Not sure which application category to choose? Start with the one that feels the truest to your journey. And if you need guidance, our Recruitment and Admissions team hosts application workshops throughout the year. We're here to help you throughout the process.

FINANCIAL AID AND SCHOLARSHIPS

We're dedicated to supporting students through scholarships, bursaries and financial aid. We have entrance scholarships and substantial awards for students with financial need from historically underrepresented groups, and for students who demonstrate academic excellence, including an aptitude for business and entrepreneurship. Domestic students may qualify for grants and loans through the Ontario Student Assistance Program (OSAP), which are applied to tuition fees. Professional student lines of credit are also available through banks, with preferred loan options for Canadians and permanent residents. We encourage you to explore all financial options to find the best fit for your needs.

Your future

Fuelled by an entrepreneurial mindset and professional experience that goes well beyond traditional legal settings, you'll join a growing group of Lincoln Alexander Law alumni who are advancing justice and redefining what it means to practice law.
