Awards and Prizes

Annette Bailey is the winner of the Senator Wanda Thomas Bernard Faculty Award, which recognizes the outstanding achievements of a distinguished Black woman scholar.

In her nomination letter, Josephine Wong highlighted Annette's innovative teaching and research on the racialization of poverty, anti-Black racism, and structural violence, international advocacy for safety and security as a human right, and enterprising volunteer work in the Jane-Finch neighbourhood: "Her research made visible the human suffering behind community violence perpetuated by social injustice and also human resilience when equitable resources and supports are made available..Dr. Bailey is most worthy of this prestigious award because she is an excellent Black woman leader and advocate for social justice and equity."

Message from the Interim Director

Congratulations to faculty, staff, and students for a very successful and productive three months!

Clearly this is evidence of Nursing Leadership in knowledge building and professional development locally, nationally, and internationally!

Elaine Santa Mina

Charlotte Lee is a nominee for the RNAO's Leadership Award in Nursing Education (Academic). This award is bestowed on those who have made outstanding contributions to the profession of nursing in Ontario by practicing excellence as a nursing educator in a college or university setting and enhancing the image of nursing by encouraging critical thinking, innovation and debate about important nursing issues, and acting as a role model and mentor.

Jennifer Lapum has won Ryerson's Knowledge Mobilization & Engagement Award, which recognizes researchers who have communicated research beyond the University and had a significant impact in shaping evidence-based policy and practice. A powerful exemplar of how Jennifer embeds knowledge mobilization into her arts-based program of research is the design, execution and evaluation of the 7024th patient art installation, the structure of which follows a labyrinth formation to characterize a patient's journey deep within oneself and the personal transformation that manifests. Her research and her ground-breaking approach to research dissemination in the health sciences, has had wide-spread impact on shaping scholarship and practice within and outside of Canada's healthcare system and the larger community.

Lori Schindel Martin has won the Dean's Service Award. Her internal service work includes extensive contributions to Ryerson University at the school, faculty and university levels such as the Research Ethics Board. Her external service includes being Ryerson's representative on OICAH-COU. Her service extends to support for the development of internal research capacity and health care policy of such not-for-profit service organizations as Advanced Gerontological Education, Alzheimer Society of Hamilton & Halton, Gerontological Nursing Association Ontario and the Registered Nurses Association of Ontario Best Practice Guideline review panel for Delirium, Dementia and Depression.

Josephine Wong has won Ryerson's Social Innovation & Action Research Award, in recognition of her work with diasporic communities to design rigorous and innovative community-engaged research that goes beyond understanding the effects of social marginalization on health to designing groundbreaking interventions to reduce health disparities and promote resilience. Josephine's research program focuses on how social identities and positions related to gender, class, sexualities, and racialization shape the health practices and health outcomes of marginalized groups, particularly in the areas of HIV/AIDS, social stigma and mental health.

Jennifer Lapum, Lori Schindel Martin, and Josephine Wong will be celebrated for their achievements at the Ryerson Awards Night, to be held on March 27, 2017.

Nominating a colleague for a Ryerson Award is a wonderful way to celebrate one another's achievements and goes a long way towards creating a culture of appreciation.

Local and International Knowledge Translation and Exchange on Stigma and Mental Health

Josephine P. Wong was busy with knowledge translation and exchange activities during November and December of 2016 in Toronto, Hong Kong and China.

In Toronto

With great support from the national Co-PIs (Sepali Guruge and Souraya Sidani) and sponsorship from the FCS Dean's Office, OVPRI and the CAW-Sam Gindin Chair in Social Justice and Democracy in FCS, Josephine and the Toronto Site Team successfully hosted the Asian Mental Health Summit: Stigma, Men's Health, and Systems Change at the Roger Community Health Centre on November 19th, 2016. The Summit brought together over 120 participants, including Mental Health Ambassadors trained through the Strength In Unity Intervention Study (funded by the Movember Foundation), researchers, service providers and decision-makers. It was a working summit whereby participants learned about the preliminary Toronto Site study results and worked together to identify strategies and next steps of action based on the recommendations put forth by the 542 Asian men who took part in the study in Toronto.

Three days prior to the Summit, on November 16, 2016, the Toronto Site Team collaborated with the Movember Foundation to co-host a press conference that took place at their new community house office on Richmond Street. The press conference was broadcasted live and viewed by over 6000 people; it also led to many follow-up media interviews. For more details about Strength In Unity Toronto Site activities, please see its Facebook page -- <https://www.facebook.com/SIU>. ## In Hong Kong & China

Josephine and her Toronto team members (Dr. Kenneth Fung of TWH and Rick Sin – Strength In Unity Project Coordinator and Senior Research Associate) were invited to provide one-day training on one of the Strength In Unity project interventions – Acceptance and Commitment Therapy (ACT). The training was hosted by the Hong Kong Polytechnic University on December 1, 2016 and brought together over 50 mental health professionals. Many participants expressed interest for further training and potential adaptation of ACT into their practice.

Josephine, Kenneth and Rick also delivered three oral presentations at the Asian Mental Health Conference (December 2-3, 2016) that took place at the Hong Kong Baptist University. Josephine presented on “Stigma of Mental Illness and Access to Care: Perspectives and Experiences of Asian Men in Toronto.” The presentations led to exchanges of ideas for potential collaboration in research and policy work.

Josephine literally delivered her presentation at the Asian Mental Health Conference and hopped into a taxi to get to the airport and to fly to the city of Jinan in the province of Shandong, China. Josephine, Kenneth and Rick had been invited to deliver three Visiting Lectures by the Chair of the Department of Social Work - School of Philosophy and Social Development, Shandong University, on community-based action research and interdisciplinary practice. They were also invited to present on hospital-community collaboration and community mental health practices by the Shandong Provincial Centre for Mental Health. Josephine led the lecture on “Addressing Syndemics Using a Critical Social Determinants of Health Approach – Cases of Interdisciplinary Collaboration in Canada” which led to an enthusiastic discussion on social policy and homelessness among participants. For knowledge exchange activities, Josephine and her team visited the Jinan Community Health Centre, the School of Nursing, and the School of Medicine at Shandong University.

Launch of Sole Expression – A Hip Hop Dance Intervention

Dr. Jennifer Lapum is part of an innovative project called “Sole Expression.” On January 19, 2017, Sole Expression was launched in Ryerson University’s amphitheatre. The five year project is funded by a $1,140,736 Public Health Agency of Canada grant. Sole Expression is a trauma-informed dance intervention for youth who have experienced abuse and are on a wait-list for services. Dr. Jennifer Martin (child and youth care) and Dr. Jennifer Lapum are co-PIs on this project and are collaborating with Boost Child & Youth Advocacy Centre and Unity Charity. The launch was well attended with representation from MP Julie Dabrusin and an energizing hip hop performance from Unity dancers. Thanks to undergraduate students Andy Tan, Karen Owusu and Wendy Jiang. You can check out the dance performance at:

Special Events

We would like to thank and acknowledge the Daphne Cockwell School of Nursing Award recipients as well as the Awards Committee. The Fall 2016 Nursing Award Ceremony turned out to be a wonderful celebration of student recognition.

Here are some quick numbers from the 2016 awards:

- The Daphne Cockwell School of Nursing awarded over $67, 000 to Ryerson Nursing students.
- The largest amount awarded in a single award was over $11,000.
- We celebrated 31 student award winners.
- About 115 students, donors, faculty and staff came together to celebrate the Awards Ceremony.

We strive to promote awards to our students, and continue to make accessibility a priority throughout this process. Should we have received more applications, we would have been able to award six more awards to our students. Please continue to spread the word to our students about the benefit and availability of these awards, as we aim for a 100% award rate annually.
