MY ACADEMIC HISTORY

TORONTO METROPOLITAN UNIVERSITY (FORMERLY KNOWN AS RYERSON):

Bachelor's Degree in Performance: Acting (2019-2023)

Jade Tardif-Da Silva is a Canadian actor and creator born in Toronto, Ontario. She enjoys delving into stories and exploring different perspectives to better understand the world and its people. During her time at TMU, (formerly known as Ryerson) she has had the opportunity to work and meet many people who are part of the film and theater profession such as Jesse Griffith, Sara Kitz, Siobhan Richardson, and many others. This experience has motivated her to expand her horizons in both theatre, film, and creative writing.

As an actor, she has explored a diverse selection of characters including, but not limited to, the anti-heroic Richard the III from the famous Shakespearean play, a dual character called the Nasty Man/Lord of the Underworld from Eurydice.

While at TMU, she has learned an abundance of skills including the treacherous stilt walking, voice acting, and honing her ability to mimic various facial ticks and body movement. Jade always strives to be a hard worker and to graciously accept any challenge that comes her way, forever wanting to showcase that she is someone who is diligent, easy to work with, and overall, a team collaborator.

Jade excels at taking direction, while experimenting with her natural comedy chops, and using what she has learned to her advantage. If you are looking for someone with a “can do” attitude, who will give her all to make your project a success, you’ve found your girl!
