Tier 2 Canada Research Chair in Migration in a Settler-Colonial Context

Arts, Sociology

Posted: January 13, 2022
 Deadline to Apply: Wednesday, March 30, 2022

Start Application Process

Located in downtown Toronto, the largest and most culturally diverse city in Canada and on the territory of the Anishinaabeg, Haudenosaunee and the Wendat Peoples, the Department of Sociology in the Faculty of Arts at Ryerson University (renaming in progress) invites applications for a Tier 2 Canada Research Chair (CRC) in Migration in a Settler-Colonial Context. Upon successful nomination to the CRC program, the candidate will be appointed to a tenure track position at the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor, effective July 1, 2023, subject to final budgetary approval.

In collaboration with Ryerson University, the successful candidate will develop the CRC nomination for the October 2022 deadline. The CRC Tier 2 appointment is tenable for five years and renewable once. All nominations are subject to review and final approval by the CRC Secretariat. Further details on the CRC eligibility criteria can be found here.

The successful candidate will engage in a combination of research, teaching and service duties, and maintain an inclusive, equitable, and collegial work environment across all activities. The incumbent will be expected to develop and maintain a strong, independent, externally funded research program that will be internationally recognized in five to ten years, and will include the mentorship and support of students and colleagues. The incumbent will also teach undergraduate and graduate courses and engage in collegial service.

The CRC in Migration in a Settler-Colonial Context would build on existing areas of strength in migration and Indigenous Studies in the Department of Sociology and the Faculty of Arts. The incumbent will be strongly encouraged to explore collaboration with the Canada Excellence Research Chair in Migration and Integration, and the CRC in Biskaabiyang and Indigenous Political Resurgence, and the Yellowhead Institute, and the Masters' Program in Immigration and Settlement. The successful candidate will develop innovative research that addresses issues at the intersection of migration and settler colonialism.

The CRC will play a leading role in overcoming the conceptual barriers and separations in communities of practice that have tended to isolate studies of migration from those of settler colonial governance in North America and other settler colonial contexts. The CRC will build on existing resources in knowledge production and community-engaged research around settler colonialism and migration in the Department of Sociology and the Faculty of Arts to create new partnerships and enhance collaborative work towards an integrative framing through a critical equity lens. The candidate must be proposing an original, innovative research program of high quality, with the goal of producing leading, cutting-edge scholarly research and contributing to community knowledge resources developed through models of collaboration and partnership.

Candidates must have a Ph.D. in Sociology or a terminal degree in a related discipline. Nominees for Tier 2 Chair positions should, at a minimum, be Assistant or Associate Professors, or possess the necessary qualifications to be appointed to these levels. Candidates must also:

- be excellent emerging world-class researchers who have demonstrated particular research creativity and sound expertise in studies in migration in a settler-colonial context, who have demonstrated the potential to achieve international recognition in their fields in the next five to ten years;
- propose an original, innovative research program of high quality utilizing diverse and innovative research techniques and methods and have the potential to attract, develop and retain excellent trainees, students and future researchers;
- display a strong emerging research profile that offers evidence of impact, such as peer-reviewed publications/contributions, authored or edited books, policy papers and other grey publications, as well as public engagement, demonstrated through blogs or other forms;
- demonstrate the ability to establish and maintain an independent, externally funded research program, including Tri-Council funding, as well as participation in research collaborations, group grants and/or ability to attract multi-center grants and attract diverse world-class collaborators;
- have a record of demonstrated commitment to equity, diversity and inclusion in leadership, teaching and research, including recommended practices of recruiting, mentoring and supporting diverse students and research trainees from underrepresented groups such as women, racialized people, persons with disabilities, Indigenous people, and 2SLGBTQ+ people;
- demonstrate experience and the ability to effectively teach a diverse population of undergraduate and graduate students in courses related to migration in a settler colonial context; the applicant must also demonstrate the potential to contribute to inclusive and accessible learning, course development and pedagogy; and
- demonstrate the ability to participate in leadership activities in collegial internal and external service.

The Tier 2 CRC is intended for exceptional emerging world-class scholars, i.e. candidates must have been active researchers in their field for fewer than 10 years at the time of nomination. The Canada Research Chairs program is a federally-funded program that seeks to achieve excellence by attracting and retaining the most accomplished and promising researchers. Applicants who are more than 10 years from having earned their highest degree (and where career breaks exist, such as maternity, parental or extended sick leave, clinical training, etc.) may have their eligibility for a Tier 2 chair assessed through the program's Tier 2 justification process.

All eligible leaves (e.g., maternity, parental, medical, bereavement) are credited at twice the amount of time taken; part-time leaves will be taken into consideration, calculated according to the percentage of leave taken, and credited at twice the amount of time taken; professional leaves (e.g., sabbatical) are not credited, but certain training or administrative leaves may be considered. Other leaves that have had an impact on the nominee's research career may be taken into account (e.g., mandatory military service, non-research-related positions, unemployment and training unrelated to the research career). This information must be supported by the information contained in the nominee's CV. Research interruptions caused by the COVID-19 pandemic (e.g., closures) are recognized as, and may be counted as, an eligible delay (credited at twice the amount of time) beginning March 1, 2020. To follow up on matters of eligibility, please contact Dayle Levine, Manager, Institutional Projects, Office of Vice-President, Research and Innovation by sending an email to dayle.levine@ryerson.ca with "Tier 2 Justification" in the subject line.

Ryerson recognizes that scholars have varying career paths and that career interruptions can be part of an excellent academic record. Candidates are encouraged to provide any relevant information about their experience and/or career interruptions to allow for a fair assessment of their application. Search committee members have been instructed to give careful consideration to diverse experiences and knowledges, and to be sensitive to the impact of career interruptions in their assessments.

This position falls under the jurisdiction of the Ryerson Faculty Association (RFA) (www.rfanet.ca). The RFA collective agreement can be viewed here and a summary of RFA benefits can be found here.

How to Apply

Applicants must submit their application online via the Faculty Recruitment Portal (click on "Start Application Process" to begin) by March 30, 2022. Indigenous candidates are encouraged to provide aspects of their lived experience and cultural imperatives in all that they do, such as mindfulness to outcomes in respective communities. The application must contain the following:

1. a letter of application that includes your interest in the position; what you would bring to the Department and Faculty; the impact on the field of migration in a settler colonial context that you foresee for your research (your 3-page research statement can elaborate on this); and what makes you a strong candidate overall as a researcher, educator, and community member;
2. a current curriculum vitae providing a clear sense of your scholarly and professional development via your education and your research activities and outcomes; your contributions to making migration in a settler colonial context a more equitable and inclusive discipline through committee work, community engagement, social media, and advocacy;
3. a research statement discussing the significance, originality, and potential impacts of your current and developing research program (up to 3 pages);
4. recent examples of research activities and outcomes including, but not limited to: peer-reviewed and non-peer reviewed publications, conference presentations, public talks, articles reaching specialist and non-specialist audiences, effective use of social media for research impact and networking;
5. a teaching statement (up to 3 pages) and a dossier of syllabi and other evidence, if available. These must demonstrate how you engage, encourage, and develop the learning capacity of students entering higher education from a diverse array of backgrounds, and how you embed practices and principles of equity, diversity and inclusion in your classroom, your assignments, and your classroom style;
6. the names and email contact information of three academic referees who know you and your research well; and
7. a statement discussing a record of demonstrated commitment to equity, diversity and inclusion.

Please note that all qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, applications from Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority, in accordance with Canadian immigration regulations. Candidates must therefore indicate in their application if they are a permanent resident or citizen of Canada.
